T. KEITH GLENNAN
Leaves Case For 'Space'

Case Tech Chief Gets Space Post

Dr. T. K. Glennan
Former AEC Member

CLEVELAND (AP)—"You don't do it all overnight," says the new director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration in commenting on American progress in space work.

Dr. T. Keith Glennan commented that "We've done a very great deal" when asked about American progress since the Russians put Sputnik into orbit.

Dr. Glennan's nomination as director of the new agency, created last week, was announced late Friday. Next Thursday he will fly to Washington to appear at Senate confirmation hearings. His assignment will begin about Sept. 1.

The agency, which will handle all non-military space projects, will apparently be built on the foundations of the quasi-public civilian body that handles basic aeronautical research for the government.

Dr. Glennan will take an indefinite leave from his post as president of Case Institute of Technology. He also was on leave from the fall of 1950 to the fall of 1952 as a member of the Atomic Energy Commission.

As a scientist-educator, he still has fresh in his mind a 15-day trip earlier this summer to Soviet colleges and universities. He said the Russians are making better use of the capitalist incentive system to encourage education than the Americans are.

"They have developed a demand for education because it pays off," he remarked. He emphasized that a student "is paid according to the quality of his work," and that there are three to six applicants for every scholarship.

"I came back very much impressed by the dedication of Russian students and faculty," he said. "The American people really don't understand how this dedication affects Russia's progress in science."

Dr. Glennan, a month away from his 53rd birthday, has been an electrical engineer, a studio manager for two big Hollywood movie outfits, and during the war the head of the Navy's underwater sound research laboratory.

Auto, Steel Output Advances

Prospects of Post-Labor Day Pickup In Economy Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Prospects of a post-Labor Day pickup cast a rosy glow on the economic scene this week.

Merchants counted hopefully on a sharp upturn in employment to put more cash in customers' pay envelopes.

Faster Economic Tempo

Even now, you could see signs of a faster economic tempo.

Production of automobiles, steel, crude oil and paperboard inches upward. Distribution of electric power set a record high.

Looking toward autumn, the construction industry braced itself for a boom in new highways, new apartments and new houses.

The auto industry, retooling for bigger, finnier and more powerful 1959 models, got set for a massive production spurt. General Motors said it planned to call back 100,000 workers by mid-October. From the Detroit point of view, only a strike could delay an earlier than usual production start on the first 1959 cars.

Stocks Bounce Back

The stock market, betting heavily on inflation, survived tighter curbs on margin buying and bounced back to its best level of the year.

Federal monetary officials, in a reversal of policy, began to tighten the reins on credit.

With the U. S. Treasury sinking deeper into the red, Congress approved a $39,600,000 military spending program — highest ever for a peacetime year. It includes huge sums for jet bombers, long range missiles and atomic powered, missile-firing submarines.

Price increases spread in the steel industry. By week's end practically all basic steel products ranging from bars, rods and structural items to oil drilling pipe carried higher price tags. There was talk in Washington of an anti-trust crackdown, but steel industry sources said the price boosts would stick.

2 Men Injured In Road Mishaps

Rogers Man 'Poor'
After Cycle Spill

Two persons were hospitalized as the result of two traffic accidents in the district Friday and this morning, the state highway patrol reports.

The injured are James Pasco Jr., 21, of 363 E. 6th St., and John Wollman, 32, of RD 1, Rogers.

Wollman is in poor condition in Youngstown South Side Hospital with a cerebral concussion sustained when he lost control of his motorcycle which overturned on Rt. 154 just east of Lisbon, Friday at 2:45 p.m.

The patrol said Wollman suffered an epileptic seizure, causing the accident. A passenger, Jack Flack, 23, of RD 1, Negley, escaped injury.

Pasco in fairly good condition in City Hospital with lacerations of the forehead and a possible head injury. He was admitted to the hospital at 12:50 a.m. today after his car went into a ditch and struck a utility pole at the intersection of the Winona Rd., and Rt. 9, south of Salem.

He was cited for reckless driving.

Legion Band To Head Up Chicago Event

A letter accepting an invitation to participate in three events at the American Legion National Convention in Chicago was acknowledged Friday by officials of the local Legion Quaker City Band.

Norman Eckfeld, band president, said the group has accepted an invitation to lead the national parade, Monday, Sept. 1, beginning at 10 a. m. Mr. Eckfeld said it has been estimated the parade will last for 12 continuous hours with over 100,000 marchers participating.

The championship band, he said, has also been asked by the national contest committee to play the retreat program for the "parade of champions", Sunday night, Aug. 31, and to play a concert at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, Sept. 2 to open the national convention program.

Although funds for the band's trip are $3,300 short, the band president said Friday "it is strongly felt by members of the band and the committee (Chamber of Commerce's Band Fund committee) that funds will be raised in order to make the trip."

He further said the band is "continuing to work diligently toward winning the national championship for the second time."

R. S. McCulloch, Sr., chairman of the fund raising committee, has called a meeting 3 p.m. Monday where the committee and representatives of the band will consider plans for raising the balance of funds needed.

Former Teamster Admits He Lied Under Oath

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate racket investigators sought details today of the hurry-up bargain sale of a Teamsters Union automobile reportedly used in Michigan's fatal human torch burning.

Chairman John L. McClellan (D-Ark) of the special Senate committee ordered the probe Friday following testimony that the automobile was sold for no money down to Herman Kierdorf, uncle of the torch victim and former aide to Teamster President James R. Hoffa.

Kierdorf's nephew, Frank Kierdorf, 56, business agent for a Pontiac, Mich., Teamsters local, died Thursday after indicating to police he suffered his burns in setting fire to a Flint, Mich., dry-cleaning shop Sunday night.

Indicated Uncle at Scene

Michigan authorities said the nephew also indicated his uncle, Herman, 68, was at the fire scene. The elder Kierdorf disappeared Monday and is sought on a warrant charging possession of a silencer-equipped gun.

Testimony on the sale of the union-owned Cadillac climaxed a fast-moving day in the committee's inquiry into allegations that Hoffa's giant union is involved with underworld characters in a nationwide plot to dominate business and labor. The hearings are in recess until Tuesday.

In other developments Friday:

1. George Francis Heid, a disgruntled former Teamster, testified that he had lied under oath — because of threats — as a defense witness in the 1956 Minneapolis trial that convicted one of Hoffa's aides on bombing charges.

Gave False Evidence

Heid said he gave false evidence in an unsuccessful effort to save Gerald Connelly, a Minneapolis Teamster official, from going to prison.

Heid said Connelly engineered the dynamiting of one Teamster official's home and the car of another, but that Connelly warned him "he would have me taken care of" if Heid told this at the trial.

2. Paul Ricca, an aging Capone era gangster, invoked the Fifth Amendment when asked why he sold his luxurious home at Long Beach, Ind., to the Teamsters Union for $150,000.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said the estate was bought by the Teamsters in 1956 with the announced plan of using it as a training school for business agents.

Suggested 'Real Reason'

But Kennedy suggested the real reason for the sale was because Ricca was a friend of Owen J. Brennan, one of Hoffa's Teamster allies.

"Isn't it a fact you needed this money for a tax case you were involved in and that you prevailed on the Teamsters to buy the estate?" Kennedy asked.

Ricca smiled and again pleaded the Fifth Amendment against possible self incrimination.

The committee asked the Senate to cite 13 balking witnesses for contempt of Congress, including President Maurice A. Hutcheson of the Carpenters Union.

DiSalle Plans Lisbon Visit Wednesday

Michael V. DiSalle, Democratic nominee for governor, and several other state candidates will visit Columbiana county Wednesday to participate in a public coffee hour at the Wick Hotel in Lisbon.

Don R. Gosney of Columbiana, county Democratic chairman, said other candidates scheduled to make the visit are: Stephen M. Young, candidate for U.S. senator; John W. Donahy, nominee for lieutenant governor; Mark McElroy, for attorney general; Joseph T. Ferguson, for treasurer; and Asher Sweeney, for secretary of state.

Also attending will be Congressman Wayne L. Hays of Ohio's 18th district, State Senator Arthur Blake, county commissioner candidates Frank C. Wilson and R. Max Gard, state representative nominee John F. Kelly, county auditor hopeful Kenneth Bell, and clerk of courts candidate Carl L. Stacey.

The touring party of state candidates also will include judicial candidates: Judge Charles B. Zimmerman of the Ohio Supreme Court and Merrill D. Brothers, candidate for the high court.

Robert Blackburn of Columbiana has been appointed chairman for the coffee hour.

'Right To Work' Petitions Checked

The County Election Board expects to complete the checking of 3,184 signatures on the "Right to work" petitions today and certify the result Monday.

The board's staff has checked 2,209 names, with 975 more to be examined. Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk, said 107 of the signatures have been ruled invalid.

One petition containing 49 names was ruled invalid after the board discovered one person had signed two voters names and the affidavit by the circulator was faulty, O'Hanlon said.

An investigation disclosed that a wife had signed for her husband, and later the husband signed and both names were counted.

The circulator of the petition did not strike out the erroneous signature and swore that he had seen all 49 sign, the clerk said.

Some of the names on the petitions are illegible, a few signers failed to list the township in which they reside so the board can't determine their residence and some of the women signed as "Mrs." which is illegal and not the name under which they vote, O'Hanlon said.

FORFEITS BOND HERE

Nautilus Pioneers Transpolar Route

A-Sub Makes Epic 1,830-Mile Trip Under Ice

Vast Commercial,
Military Possibilities
Opened by Voyage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American atomic submarine Nautilus headed toward Europe today after pioneering a transpolar path for tomorrow's commerce—or missile-firing undersea craft.

In complete secrecy, the Nautilus — world's first nuclear sub—completed its epic 1,830 mile journey under ice four days ago. It traveled from the Pacific to the Atlantic, passing through the Arctic Sea lying between North America and Russia.

News Announced Friday

News of the dramatic feat was announced Friday at a special White House ceremony. President Eisenhower decorated the sub commander, who was flown back especially for the occasion. And Eisenhower awarded a unit citation to the Nautilus' 116-man crew.

In his citation to the sub commander, Navy Cmdr. William R. Anderson, 37, Eisenhower stressed the commercial possibilities opened up by the Nautilus' voyage. The military implications are obvious, but the President left them unmentioned.

"This," he said, "points the way for further exploration and possible use of this route by nuclear powered cargo submarines as a new commercial seaway between the major oceans of the world."

If Washington preferred to ignore publicly the military implications, London did not. A British naval source said "it means that atomic-driven submarines could cross from the north coast of the American continent beneath the ice to launch attacks on the northern shore of the Soviet Union."

No Immediate Comment

There was no immediate comment by the Russians, but a Communist newspaper in Paris said it showed that "American research is in no way orientated toward pacific realizations."

The news of the Nautilus' voyage across the top of the world was nourishing for an American public that has had a diet of Russian firsts in science and arms.

The White House obviously intended it to be so. By plan, there was first deep secrecy, then a tantalizing hint of a good story to come. This was followed by the dramatic announcement and ceremony.

But to whatever prestige-establishing purpose the government put the Nautilus' feat, the long cruise beneath the sea did compile a record of arduous navigation, cold courage and technical skill.

Left Hawaii July 23

The Nautilus left Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, before dawn on July 23. Sailing silently northward, it moved through the Bering Strait, between Alaska and Siberia, and on toward the Arctic.

Anderson, who hails from Waverly, Tenn., was asked by newsmen if he thought the Russians may have detected the Nautilus as it moved through the Bering Strait.

"If the Russians detected us, they're awfully good," Anderson replied.

From the Bering Strait on, the Nautilus operated in international waters. But although the Arctic Ocean is designated as international, it is divided into spheres of interest — Russian on the one hand and U.S., Canadian and Danish on the other. Denmark owns Greenland.

In charting the "Northwest Passage" from the Bering Sea to the Greenland Sea, the Nautilus traveled for 96 hours submerged under a thick ice cover. The sub was navigated by a form of dead reckoning.

Late last Sunday, the Nautilus reached the North Pole. From there, Anderson wrote Eisenhower a letter noting the event and wishing the President "Godspeed in your continuing fight for world peace."

School Road Job To Start Monday

The J. V. Dennison Co. of Youngstown is expected to begin work Monday on the construction of the roadway off N. Lincoln Ave. leading to the new senior high school.

D. M. Fadely, business manager for the board of education, said today that the board had awarded the contract for the work to the Dennison firm on a revised bid of $37,000. The original bid was $54,750.

The lessening in cost was achieved by reducing the thickness of the asphaltic pavement and making the parking lot at the school smaller, to accommodate 200 cars instead of 300 automobiles, Mr. Fadely explained.

The road from Lincoln Ave. to the school is to be 18 feet wide, with an additional lane expected to be built at a later date.

Hammarskjold Offers Broad Plan for Peace

Asks Big Powers
Let Arab Nations
Alone Politically

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold tried today to direct the U.N. debate on the Middle East away from big power name calling toward shaping a constructive plan to stabilize the area.

Hammarskjold offered a broad plan for peace and economic improvements in the crisis-ridden region at a 35-minute opening meeting Friday of the General Assembly's third emergency special session. The assembly recessed until Wednesday, when debate will begin.

Asks End To Interference

The secretary general proposed that Arab nations stop interfering with each other and the big powers let them alone politically while helping them economically.

His plan was unveiled while the United States and the Soviet Union still were working on proposals. Washington talk has been along lines similar to Hammarskjold's plan.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev demanded immediate action to get U.S. troops out of Lebanon and British forces out of Jordan. "Their presence constitutes a danger to world peace," he contended in repeating the line on which Soviet Premier Khrushchev first wanted a summit conference and then switched last Tuesday to demanding the assembly meeting.

Lodge Accuses Russia

U.S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge in reply accused Russia of wanting the session as a propaganda sounding board. He expressed regret that Sobolev had introduced the discordant note and said Washington hopes the assembly can come to grips with basic Middle Eastern problems.

Sobolev spoke after Sir Leslie Munro of New Zealand, assembly president, opened the session with the traditional plea that delegates would refrain "from making unworthy propaganda and will be scrupulous to avoid polemics or abuse."

Lodge, who expected to present the U.S. plan next week, called Hammarskjold's ideas "a constructive approach." Sobolev had no comment. Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was flying to New York this weekend, presumably bringing Moscow's own plan.

Hammarskjold's Proposal

Hammarskjold proposed that:

1. The Arab nations—the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria, Iraq, Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Yemen, Libya and Sudan — reaffirm adherence to such principles as nonaggression and noninterference in each other's internal affairs.

2. "The world community" assure Arab nations "they may shape their own destinies."
3. Middle East nations create with U.N. help new financial institutions to pull development money into the area.

4. "Cooperation between oil producing and oil transiting countries." President Nasser's U.A.R., across which oil passes, would like to share in some of the production profits of Iraq and Saudi Arabia.

5. "Joint utilization and water resources."
6. Strengthening of the U.N. truce supervision organization in Jordan on the border with Israel and undefined special measures "adequate in the specific situation prevailing" — apparently meaning the weak and vulnerable condition of Jordan.

7. "Some form of U.N. representation" be provided in Lebanon once the U.N. observation team leaves. The United States has promised to withdraw its troops when the U.N. can guarantee Lebanon's independence.
8. Continuation of the U.N. Emergency Force separating U.A.R. and Israeli forces.

It's the Spiritually Fit Who Survive

The Survival of the Fittest! How often we have heard this phrase used with little or no regard for its true meaning and significance! And how often we have had reason to wonder about it!

What does it mean, and what do we imply when we use it? Do the fit always survive? Is it true that those who are most fit, whether individuals, a family group, an organization or a nation, will meet most successfully the problems they encounter? And in what way must they see fit to do so?

As a rule, we think of survival in terms of physical and material strength — the nation with an invincible war machine or the individual with the strongest, most perfect physique.

Confident Living

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

How to Conquer Irritation

One of the greatest writers and historians the English-speaking world has ever produced was Thomas Carlyle, who was born in Scotland in 1795. He worked hard at his writing and often labored long into the night. As a result he liked to sleep late in the mornings.

One of Carlyle's neighbors owned a rooster, and this rooster, in the immemorial way of all roosters, would start crowing about four-thirty in the morning. Finally, Carlyle was so annoyed by this chattering neighbor's welcome to the morn that he went to see his neighbor to complain.

Does the rooster's crowing bother you that much?" the neighbor asked.

"No," Carlyle answered. "It's the lying there waiting for him to crow."

Carlyle's greatest work was his famous history of the French Revolution. After years of work, he completed the first volume and took it to a friend, James Anthony Froude, the historian, for his opinion. Froude read the lengthy manuscript at his leisure, keeping it on his work table. One day, his maid needed some paper to start the fire. She picked up Carlyle's manuscript and used it.

Dr. Peale

FROUDE KNEW there was no copy and rushed, in consternation, to tell Carlyle of the disaster. He was surprised to find that Carlyle took the news calmly and said in effect, "I don't want you to feel badly about it and please don't scold that poor maid." Then he remarked that he didn't think the writing had been too good anyway and perhaps it was just as well he had to do it over.

In a real crisis, Carlyle had strength and calmness, and yet a small irritation could drive him to distraction. How true that is of so many of us!

How would you like to be able to overcome all those little daily irritations that snip at the serenity and effectiveness of your life? You may think they are truly superficial, but nothing is superficial which drains of the power and control of one's personality.

The great physician, Sir William Osler, used to insist that one of the most important elements in the art of living is the skill of equanimity. And the way to have equanimity, he said, is to practice the philosophy contained in St. Luke's words, "In your patience possess ye your souls." And surely there is nothing more taxing to our capacity for patience than the small irritations which bother us all the time. To master them is to develop equanimity.

ONE OF THE SIMPLEST ways to conquer irritation is by systematic relaxation. It is almost universally recognized today that the mind has an enormous influence on the body; it is less often realized that the influence of the body on the mind is also important. And the objective of true relaxation is to get the mind and body working together in harmony.

A combined system of physical and mental relaxation involves loosening of muscle tensions and actually getting thoughts into a state of peacefulness. To accomplish this sit loosely in a chair, resting hands palms up on the knees, fingers uncured. Let your mind touch first upon one foot, then the other, conceiving of each as letting go, as relaxed. Proceed to relax the muscles of your legs, torso, arms, hands, neck, face, eyes in similar manner consciously feeling them slackening as you would allow a stretched rubber band to return to limpness.

REMAINING IN this relaxed position conceive of God's hand resting in turn on each member of your body with quieting and healing touch. When you picture God's hand resting upon your heart, quietly repeat these words: "Let not your heart be troubled," but substitute "my" to personalize the thought.

Continue by articulation of words which passing through the mind have the power to empty out irritations and increase relaxation. The suggested words are these: "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on Thee," and "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you." One thing is sure—irritations can not exist in the mind when it is filled with the peace of God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Over the altar of a church in Philadelphia this huge window tells the story of the life of Christ. But it speaks only to those who gaze upon it reverently.

Through the centuries the Holy Bible has revealed to men the Light of the World . . . but only to those who will read it and hear it preached.

Every day a wondrous light seems to shine in the faces of those whose hearts have been touched by God. And amid the turmoil of our worldly confusion we are transfixed again and again by the warm glow of someone's Christian countenance.

These too are windows of God.

This light could shine from our faces as well. That's why the Church seeks us all.

Attracting New Industries

City water department statistics this week revealed a 48,000,000 gallon decrease in the amount of water pumped from the municipality's big reservoir near East Cold Run.

The decrease is attributed to a slackening of industrial plant operations but an already noticeable economic pickup is expected to be reflected in a greater demand for water.

An important factor often lost sight of in the month to month reports of water pumpage is Salem's enviable position of having a nearly-inexhaustible water supply for industrial, commercial and domestic use.

The city's 660-million gallon capacity Cold Run Reservoir was built six years ago to provide Salem with a surface supply adequate enough to take care of the needs of existing industries and also any new plants.

But those new factories haven't materialized despite the fact that the city's multi-fold attractions include a more than ample water supply, strategically-located plant sites, good rail and highway facilities, good homes, schools and churches, parks, stores and a good labor market, not to mention many other attributes.

Salemites don't have to be sold on the fact that they live in one of the finest communities. They know it. But do others know?

An accelerated program of promoting Salem by the Chamber of Commerce and other organizations might bring in a few new industries and businesses, with beneficial effects.

A new industries campaign must be dynamic and never-ending. It can't change with the seasons or else progress will become retrogression.

On Again, Off Again, Down Again

The purpose of Marxist dialectics—which is the art of carrying on an argument—is to wear out the opposition.

It has been demonstrated a thousand times in a thousand places that a Communist well schooled in dialectics is able to tie an adversary in knots at will.

This has been the Communist tactic for taking over organizations and governments. The Communist conspiracy maintains schools to be sure its agents will know every trick of disputation.

Though this is almost as well known outside the Soviet Union as the identity of the Communist officials in power at any given moment, it continues to be as advantageous to the Communist conspiracy as if it were a mystery weapon.

The confusion now existing over the so-called summit conference is nothing more or less than a demonstration of dialectics that is keeping the opposition milling in confusion while Premier Khrushchev drives home his point.

The point is that he says he wants a meeting whose purpose is to protect the Middle East from foreign intervention and therefore he can pass pose as the protector of Pan Arabism.

The fact is the Western Powers have armies in Lebanon, Jordan and Algeria and the Soviet Union does not have a soldier south of the Black Sea. Premier Khrushchev does not even need to practice dialectics to make that point; it is self-evident.

WHAT IS THE usefulness of dialectics? Why is the art stressed so heavily in the preparation of Communists for careers?

Nothing can be settled by argument, only by agreement. Therefore, the purpose of dialectics is to make certain that no Communist ever should be at a loss for the means to argue indefinitely. If he can talk down his adversary, all well and good. But under no circumstances must an adversary seem to have the advantage.

There is no hope of changing anyone's mind by dialectics. The only hope is that by keeping the minds of opponents in a state of confusion and agitation the masters of Marxist dialectic will weaken their ability to make decisions and agreements.

Therefore, the most frustrating rebuttal that can be used against the users of Marxist dialectic is silence. It takes two to argue. If the side that has everything to lose and nothing to gain by getting into an argument with a Communist will not argue, there can be no argument.

THIS HAS BEEN, in general, the position of the United States—that it has no intention of arguing with Khrushchev or any other Communist for the sake of arguing—that whenever the Kremlin has something to say worth listening to the United States will listen.

But, unfortunately, a policy of saying aloof has not been understood either at home or abroad. It has satisfied no one.

The alternative will satisfy no one, either. The prospect of getting anywhere but into deeper confusion with the "on again, off again, up again" tactics of Premier Khrushchev in dickering for a summit conference is as dim as the prospect that the Kansas City A's will overhaul the New York City Y's and capture the American League pennant.

Top Tiger

Claire L. Chennault was an old, sick tiger when he died, far from the jungle that had quaked when he roared. We hate to admit he had been forgotten. He was a top hero of World War II in our book.

His demonstration of skill as leader of the U.S. volunteers who flew for China and later as commander of the 14th Air Force in Asia was one of World War II's most stirring sources of faith in our fighting ability.

His "Flying Tigers" and their exploits against Japanese planes, troops and shipping built more morals than anything that happened in the early years of World War II.

No airman of his day had more effect on the tactics of aerial warfare than Gen. Chennault. Unlike some heroes, his was a personal accomplishment. He never had the equipment and supplies to overwhelm the enemy. He had to substitute intelligence and boldness for the planes and ammunition he could not get from Washington. But he proved long before it had been proved by a major effort of U.S. armed forces in the Pacific that the Japanese could be beaten on their own ground by Yankee methods.

We never understood the political complications that clouded the latter years of his long service as the protegee and friend of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek. We know only that she went to see him before he died and the two old friends had one last meeting. Mme. Chiang knew a great man was about to die. China's most courageous tiger finally had been cornered.

Primary Question

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—Does the Eisenhower administration really have a broad Mideast program to offer the United Nations General Assembly or is it just playing by ear?

That becomes a primary question now that the United States and the Soviet Union—since the idea of a special summit meeting apparently has been killed—prepare to carry their Mideast dispute into the Assembly, perhaps next week.

A week ago—when a summit meeting still seemed a possibility—Secretary of State Dulles talked in very narrow terms of what this country would propose. He got some bad reaction in the press. Since then administration people have been busy giving the impression it would come up with a broad program.

Wednesday in U.N. headquarters in New York people who wanted to be identified only as informants told an Associated Press reporter this country will offer the assembly a broad stabilization program for the Mideast.

They said the administration wants to deal with at least three major problems there: Arab nationalism, economic development and the hundreds of thousands of Arab refugees dispossessed by the Arab-Israeli war of 1948.

But when the reporter sought to pin down his informants—by instance, by asking specifically what would be proposed for the refugees—he was told the details have not been worked out.

Yet, since those refugees have been a blistering sore in the Mideast for 10 years, it might seem Dulles' State Department planners by this time would be pretty clear on what would be done.

Only a week ago at his news conference Dulles was not talking in terms of a broad program at all. Just the opposite. That was when there was still talk of a summit meeting.

He outlined this country's two main goals at such a meeting: to defend this country against Soviet charges of aggression and to win indirect aggression of the Soviets. Until these points were disposed of, he said, "we do not have an inviolable or a condition which permits you to proceed usefully" with other problems.

He added: "There is no use getting into the details of economic projects and the like if the (Mideast) governments are going to live under a constant threat of indirect aggression, assassination and the like."

Two days later—Aug. 2—the Washington Post accused him of a narrow view in an editorial called "The Same Old Rut." It said Dulles was in a rut and added: "Certainly it is right for this country to seek means of dealing with the indirect aggression which has been and is a very real threat in the Near East. But to make this the be-all and end-all... as Mr. Dulles seems to want, would be to get nowhere."

A few hours after the editorial appeared the administration changed its line. Acting anonymously, a high official called in newsmen and frankly said he wanted to offset an impression the administration was bankrupt of ideas.

He told newsmen Eisenhower would submit to any U.N. summit meeting a series of concrete proposals for peace in the Middle East. So what the informants told the AP man yesterday at the U.N. was following the line laid down by the high official last Saturday.

Meanwhile, Dulles went to Brazil. It remains to be seen what he'll have to say now when he returns.

At his own news conference Eisenhower was asked if, with or without a summit meeting, his administration planned to come up with an "integrated over-all program of operation in the Middle East?"

He replied vaguely, saying: "Well, now, I am not going to put it in those broad and quite such resounding terms. We certainly know what we want to do, and we are prepared to do as we agree with each of the countries, if we can, to help wherever we can."

This might seem to mean he was thinking of working out arrangements with individual countries separately. Later in his conference he talked of working through the U.N. but he was never specific on what he had in mind.

Curbing the Court

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Doctrine of Pre-Emption Affects State Laws

By a decisive vote, in which the conservative Republican-Southern Democratic coalition prevailed, the House of Representatives recently passed a bill limiting the power of the Supreme Court to strike down state laws under what is called the doctrine of pre-emption.

This bill with some changes, has been approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee in the final days of this session.

Some such legislation has been urged ever since the Supreme Court, in a series of decisions two years ago, reached far into the field of legislation and seriously impaired the constitutional powers of the states to protect their interests, notably in the fields of anti-subversive activities.

The terms of the House bill (H. R. 3) are simple. Its first section provides that: "No Act of Congress shall be construed as indicating an intent on the part of Congress to occupy the field in which such act operates, to the exclusion of all state laws on the same subject matter, unless there is a direct and positive conflict between such act and a state law so that the two cannot be reconciled or consistently stand together."

THEN, APPARENTLY to nail down specifically the right of the states on the subject of secession, a further provision is added on that subject.

The Senate Judiciary Committee's bill as approved limited itself to the latter section of the House bill but the chairman asserted that members of the committee might offer the more sweeping provision of the House bill in the shape of an amendment on the Senate floor.

Since the Supreme Court went far beyond state laws on secession in its wholesale emasculation of the powers of states, it would seem the better part of wisdom for the Senate to make the terms of the curb general.

For under the impetus of the almost fanatical zeal of a majority of this court to limit the powers of the states and to extend Federal power, no one can know where it will strike next.

To provide in every act of Congress that federal pre-emption shall not apply would seem to be a cumbersome way of putting into effect a power clearly within the jurisdiction of Congress.

The Constitution clearly gives Congress power to define within certain limits the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and it specifically provides that "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states respectively, or to the people."

SINCE THE AMAZING invasion of the rights and authority of the states began five years ago, innumerable lawyers whose capacity is just as great as that of any of the present members of the court, have condemned the reckless course of decisions.

In the Nelson case especially, the term "jail delivery" was quite generally used.

Chief Justice Harlan F. Stone, said of this theory of pre-emption, now asserted by the Court, in a case in 1942:

"Due regard for the maintenance of our dual system of government demands that the courts do not diminish state power by extravagant inferences regarding what Congress might have intended if it had considered the matter, or by reference to their own conceptions of a policy which Congress has not expressed and is not plainly to be inferred from the legislation which it has enacted."

It is a bit difficult for the layman to understand the reasoning of a court which interpreted a federal law on secession as having excluded the states from legislation on the subject when the original sponsor of that federal legislation is still alive and able to tell what was in his mind and what he knows to have been in the minds of his colleagues when they voted for it.

But that is the precise situation now, and fortunately that sponsor, Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-A), is mostly responsible for the salutary curb of the presumptuous court which is now before the Senate.

McDonald Faces Test

By JOHN F. BURNS

David J. McDonald, the handsome, pipe-smoking head of the 1,000-member United Steelworkers of America, is apparently headed for trouble—in his own union.

A test of his leadership may come next month at the biennial convention of the steel union in Atlantic City. The question: Will McDonald be able to control the convention? Some steel union officials doubt that he can.

Even the USW leader's supporters agree that their president, who had a union empire at his feet after the death in 1952 of former USW President Philip Murray, has descended to a low ebb of personal prestige in the steel union. And if Mr. McDonald cannot control the September convention he may be on his way out as head of the nation's second largest industrial union.

As USW pre-convention politics begin to boil, open opposition to McDonald's rule does not show nearly enough strength to unhorse the boss.

The real danger to the USW leader lies in the latent opposition which will not stand up and be counted. But given the right kind of convention issue, the anti-McDonald sentiment could take on bandwagon proportions.

McDONALD HAS stubbed his political toe on a USW dues issue. At the union's 1956 convention the USW leader insisted on—and got a dues increase from $3 to $5 a month even though the union treasury of 20 million dollars was in no evident danger of dissipation.

At the same convention he also got himself a substantial salary boost, raising his annual stipend to $50,000 a year. That didn't sit too well, either, with the boys back home who sweat it out in the steel mills. Neither did his airy explanation in the wings that his salary increase would cost the members only a penny each a year.

The extent of McDonald's blundering on the dues issue can be read into the election of last year when the USW leader polled 404,172 votes in his successful bid for re-election to the presidency. His opponent, Donald C. Rarick of McKeesport, Pa., a local union shop steward and a virtual unknown in the international union, polled 223,517. Rarick ran on a dues-increase protest platform.

Rarick's surprising show of strength has convinced a number of USW people that anyone of several international officers with "adequate stature" could have beaten McDonald for the presidency.

McDONALD'S TROUBLES in the steel union began in the early part of 1955 when he named his personal assistant, Howard R. Hague, as acting vice president. Nine members of the 31-man USW executive board insisted on an election forthwith, in accordance with the union's constitution.

With McDonald's backing Hague subsequently defeated Joseph P. Molony, New York State USW director for the post. But some of the scars of that battle still linger.

Both McDonald and Hague had been one time office personnel for the union, leading one newspaper columnist to describe their ascendancy to positions of union power as "the triumph of the clerks."

The friction in the union wasn't helped a short time later when McDonald crushed a movement among USW staffers to form a union of their own. McDonald told them bluntly that he looked upon their action as "dual unionism."

The staffers' self-organizing efforts thereupon withered on the vine.

The New York State Racing Board has revoked a ruling permitting children to track under the theory that there is so much natural beauty, greenery and spaciousness the tracks constitute a good place for family picnics.

It was silly to think kiddies could be so preoccupied with the box-lunch, foliage, birds and bees that they would pay no attention to bad examples of frenzied horse players.

Little Egbert knows the difference between an egg sandwich and a daily double. Sister Susie, only 8, knows cries of "The bum quit in the stretch," and "The jockey's a thief" are not remarks that indicate a fresh air fund outing or park picnic.

LINCOLN ON THE NEW jacked-up stamps is not appropriate. Abe personified the value of pennies and sympathy for the cash customers. He never sought to make things tough on pocketbooks. He was a great letter writer. The 4-cent stamp calls for a less lovable personality. Or perhaps a group of figures depicting the death of the nickel cigar, the nickel hotdog and the biggest glass of beer in town for 5 cents. There could be a drawing of Lizzie Borden slaying a letter-writer with an ax. And a post office in the background with a sign "All prices for today only."

The higher postage rates are already hurting romance. A fellow who always wrote his best girl twice a week has cut his letters to her to one, because for 4 cents he gets what would otherwise set him back 8. He got a reply, "You can't grade me down by a few pennies and get away with it. If you loved me 6 cents per week up to August 1 but won't go up another 2 cents, it'll all over between us."

Hay Fever

Millions of people suffer from some kind of allergy. Simply defined, allergy may be called an increased or abnormal sensitivity to some substance which is foreign to the human body.

The offender may be inhaled in the form of pollen from the air, taken into the body as food or medicine. Or it may be a contact agent, such as weeds, dandruff or lacquer.

A NORMAL PERSON does not react to the foreign substance. The allergic person may show any one of several unpleasant responses.

Today I shall discuss the most common form of allergy, which is known as hay fever. Actually, it does not produce fever and rarely comes from hay.

The most serious form of hay fever is usually that which comes in the late summer or early fall and is the result of allergy to the pollen of the common ragweed.

There are other kinds of hay fever which generally come at different times of the year and result from tree, grass, flower or other pollens.

Probably still the best procedure for a person with severe hay fever is to find out by skin testing which pollen is responsible and to receive injections of diluted extracts of these pollens far in advance of the "season." This is called desensitization, and often brings full or partial relief.

WHEN A PERSON is susceptible to severe ragweed hay fever and has not taken the shots, or does not get sufficient relief from them, the season is looked forward to as a time of misery. Many seek some area where ragweed is absent, or present only in small quantities. In North America there are many such regions.

However, for those people who have to stay put in an area where ragweed pollen is plentiful, there are improved measures of relief. On of these is air conditioning, particularly if cooling is combined with washing or filtering the air.

Modern drugs are helpful. Those which have the most dramatic effects are the antihistamines. These are taken by mouth. They often bring striking improvement of symptoms for several hours at a time.

BUT IT IS hard to choose which one to use since there are so many. Some work best for some people, while other persons do better with a different preparation. Furthermore, some people are made sleepy by these drugs, and this can be dangerous.

Many sufferers are considerably helped by taking weak doses of pollen extract every day or so during the season, even if they have had injections before. By one means or another, it is possible for most victims of ragweed hay fever today to get a good deal of relief.

JASPER, Alta. (AP)—A black bear grabbed a terrified girl as she tripped on the steps of her cottage Friday and dragged her away to death.

7-year-old Barbara Christine Coates was just a few feet away from safety when attacked by the animal in Jasper National Park.

In a frantic effort to save her daughter, Mrs. Jack Coates ran from the cottage, took hold of the child's legs and pulled as the bear backed off with his victim between his teeth.

The bear dragged the screaming mother and daughter 50 feet into a bush and fatally mauled the girl. It dropped the child when startled by three girls who rushed upon the scene in answer to Mrs. Coates' cries.

The bear was shot by a cottage owner as it turned to pounce on the girls. Barbara died en route to a hospital here. Mrs. Coates was not injured.

Scott's Candy Wins County Softball Crown

Defeat Herrons 11-2 In Finals

Falcon AC Captures First District Game

Scott's Candy of Salem won the Columbiana County softball tournament Friday night with an easy 11-2 win over Herron Transfer.

The winners, who went through the weeklong tourney unbeaten, scored in every inning but the seventh in wrecking a Herron team that had beaten Old Dutch and Stepanic's Tavern both last Wednesday.

Scotts racked John Shelton for 11 hits. Five errors by the losers also contributed to their defeat.

Herrons, with sloppy fielding and weak hitting, were a different ball club from Wednesday night when they advanced into the county finals.

Scotts experienced little difficulty in getting to Shelton. They registered two runs in the first frame, added one each in the second and third and three in the fourth.

After six innings, they led 11-2. Herrons two runs came in the fourth on singles by Bill Crookston and Gordon Arndt plus a passed ball and an error.

Satch Altomare was the winning hurler allowing Herrons but five hits. He drove in three runs himself with three hits. His catcher, Ken Schoeni, also knocked in three runs with a triple.

As the county runnerup, Herrons played the Falcon AC of Smithfield Friday night in the first game of the district tourney and were beaten 11-7 after blowing a 3-0 lead.

The winners from Jefferson County touched Glenn Mercer for 10 hits. Herrons had seven off Vince Johnson but four miscues proved fatal also to the losers.

Herrons led 3-0 after three innings but the southern Ohioans broke loose with separate four-run rallies in the fourth and fifth frames to take a commanding 8-3 margin.

They led 10-4 going into the Herron half of the sixth.

Joe Hrvatic lashed a three-run homer into the right field corner for Herrons to pull his team to within three at 10-7 but it wasn't close enough.

Ed McGhee homered over the centerfield fence for Smithfield.

Herrons will play the loser of the Smithfield-Scott's Candy game at 7 p.m. Sunday. Scotts and Smithfield play at 5 p.m. Sunday.

Two Class A league games were staged last night. Demings beat Tolsons 7-3 and Salona Supply defeated Bliss 5-2.

Demings took a 6-0 lead after four frames to go on to their win. Ed Hardy blasted a homer and two singles for the winners while Nelson Mellinger got the win setting down Tolsons on six hits.

Gerry Fowler was the loser. Red Dotson of Salona struck out 11 men and gave up just four safeties in pitching his team over Bliss.

Bill Rummell hit a triple and double for the winners. Bill Kyser took the loss.

OUT OF DOORS with Field & Stream

By RUFUS L. LIDE

The rains came. Along with it came plenty of trouble in many spots.

I was on several farm-pond tours conducted by the county agent and members of the Soil Conservation Service last week.

One thing these men stressed was for a dam to be built as if there would be a cloud-burst immediately after it was constructed.

It might not happen in a lifetime but when the cloud-burst occurs, could the dam stand the pressure?

Recent rains took out many dams. What was once a fish-filled farm pond is now another drain basin.

A dam built on practically a dry run means trouble ahead when heavy rains cause it to turn into a little Niagara on account of the large drainage area.

All consideration should be given to the drainage area when a pond is planned. That is one service provided by the S.C.S. office.

IN MANY instances, you will be surprised to learn that on the upper regions a pond can well be constructed with sufficient drainage to keep it in plenty of water. It might seem to you however, that the lower section would make a better site because of the amount of water.

A pond improperly located or not constructed properly means money "down the drain".

Even the soil should be analyzed to see if it is too porous and if it would hold water.

THE BETTER thing to do if you don't know what you are doing is to use the county and government service provided. Do the constructing according to their expert advice. Not only will the pond be a permanent fixture but when properly stocked, will provide excellent fishing for your family and friends.

Not only that, but it is well worth the effort if only used for livestock or in case of a fire.

Farm pond fishing is the best after the pond has been stocked properly. The fish have had time to mature and grow. Three and four pound bass and 10 inch bluegills are common in a one acre pond.

In the meantime, if you are a fisherman and want good fishing, I would advise you to get "chummy" with the landowner. Make a deal with him that will permit you to fish in the pond along with provisions on what you will do for him in return.

Don't be afraid to make the approach. The worst thing that could happen would be a flat "no". Once fish reach maturity in a pond it should be fished and fished plenty before over-crowding conditions take over with thousands of little runs.

It is very important to "have" the fish crop the same as is done to wheat and oats.

Witt Hurls 3-Hitter

Bucs Climb To Within One Game Of 2nd Spot

By The Associated Press
George "Red" Witt appears to be the answer to Pittsburgh's long search for the fourth starting pitcher behind Bob Friend, Ronnie Kline and Vern Law.

Witt's brilliant three-hit shutout of Cincinnati Friday night draws attention to him. He struck out 10 Redlegs, including Bob Thurman four times, in his 1-0 victory over Joe Nuxhall.

Pittsburgh, momentarily derailed in Milwaukee, again is making menacing gestures in the National League race. The Pirates trail the Braves by eight games but are only one game behind the San Francisco Giants.

Not even the sight of the Los Angeles Dodgers could pull the Giants out of their fearful tail.

Bomb, Midget Races Set At Canfield Oval

The Canfield Speedway has been entirely reconditioned for this evening's big program of racing. Ten events are carded. Eight are in the modified bomb field and will be topped with the famous Australian Pursuit race and a 25-lap feature event. Two events are carded for the mighty three-quarter midgets which will make their first appearance in this area.

In the modified field, the brother team of Norm and Gordon Calhoun of Akron will strive for the winner's flag, the beautiful trophy and the large purse. Norm has won one feature event and placed second in another. Gordon is a comparative newcomer and is still learning the short way around the Canfield oval. Norm's modified bomb is powered with a Chevrolet engine and Gordon's is powered with 1958 Edsel engine.

Gordon, with a little more experience, is expected to be one of the top contenders on the Canfield racing strip.

Rough-riding Nook Walter of Niles, a veteran at the Canfield track, is determined that he will carry the checkered flag in the feature. Walters has been dogged by hard luck all season long here and will try hard to overcome the jinx.

In the special events for the midgets, well-known veterans such as Dave Moore of Petersburg, Bill Costello of Sharon, Pa., Wayne Clark of New Castle, Pa. and Bill Perkins of Youngstown will compete. This experiment on the tricky quarter mile at Canfield should produce two thrilling events. Gates will open at 6:30. Time trials are at 7 and the first event at 8:30.

Indians Get 12 Hits In Win Over Athletics

CLEVELAND (AP) — Larry Doby has been tabbed by Manager Joe Gordon as the player most likely to provide extra punch to give the Cleveland Indians a second place finish.

During one of Doby's hot streaks, shortly after Gordon became manager, the Indians won four of five games. The veteran center fielder cooled off during an Eastern tour and the whole team slumped.

Doby got three hits in Detroit Tuesday night in celebrating his return to the starting lineup and he Indians beat the Tigers, 6-1.

Friday night, he contributed a double in the Tribe's six-run rally that was a factor in giving Cleveland a 10-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Fine relief pitching by southpaw Don Ferrarese was another factor in the Tribe's victory Friday night. He took over from starter Jim Grant with two men out in the fifth inning after the rookie right-hander had allowed four runs on seven hits. Ferrarese held the A's scoreless on only two hits the rest of the game to register his first victory in four decisions this season.

Stretch Drive Begins In Ohio Golf Tourney

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Sixty-six players from 18 cities started down the 36-hole stretch drive of the 25th Ohio Public Links golf championship today in pursuit of 43-year-old Art Todd of Columbus.

The capital city industrial plant fireman held a four-stroke edge at the halfway mark in the 72-hole medal play test. He had a pair of sub-par rounds of 68 and 70.

On his heels was 19-year-old Dave Daniels, Ohio State student from Columbus, who won the pay-as-you-go classic as a 16-year-old in 1955.

Two more strokes back at 144 was Len Pietras of Toledo, the 24-year-old former National Caddie champion who won the Publinks title in 1946.

The 66 finalists are survivors of a starting field of 231. Each scored 156 or better in the first two rounds to get into today's marathon.

Ace Armstrong Victor; Calhoun Down 4 Times

NEW YORK (AP) — Anyone who thinks undefeated Gene Armstrong doesn't pack a wallop should ask Rory Calhoun.

"He can punch real good," said the rugged Rory, rubbing his jaw. "He sure surprised me."

Calhoun should know. He hit the deck four times and was staggered several more times in losing a lop-sided 10-round decision to the under-rated Armstrong at Madison Square Garden Friday night.

Yanks Ahead By 16½

Ford Lowers ERA To 1.66 With 7th Shutout Victory Of Season

Whitey Ford is sailing along with the best earned run average in the majors since Spud Chandler in 1943. The New York Yankees' chunky left-hander posted his seventh shutout Friday night, lowering his ERA to 1.66.

Actually, Ford could just as well have eight shutouts at this time. He voluntarily left an early season game after seven innings with an 8-0 lead. Although his relief man blanked Washington the rest of the way, it doesn't count as a shutout.

The Yanks' club record is eight shutouts set by Russell Ford (no relation) in 1910.

Chandler led the American League 15 years ago with a 1.64 ERA. The lowest in the National in 25 years was Carl Hubbell of the Giants with 1.66 in 1933.

Ford's 14th victory shunted the Boston Red Sox 16½ games behind the league leaders who continue to march toward the earliest clinching date in history. Without Ted Williams, who was out of action with a sprained left wrist, Boston had no punch. The Sox succumbed weakly 2-0 with only three hits. Two came in the fourth but a double play followed Pete Runnels' single and Jackie Jensen was cut down trying to stretch a double into a triple.

Washington sunk Baltimore 4-2, the Orioles' 11th straight defeat, a new high for the majors this season. Dick Hyde, a key figure in more than half of the Senators' victories, saved the day in relief of winner Russ Kemmerer in the eighth. It was his 15th successful relief job, plus nine victories on his own.

Cleveland broke loose with six runs in the third inning for a 10-4 romp over Kansas City. Don Ferrarese took over for Jim Grant with two out in the fifth and blanked the A's the rest of the way. It was his first victory of the year.

Frank Lary pitched himself out of one jam after another and went the route to beat Chicago despite 14 White Sox hits. Al Kaline and Charlie Maxwell each drove in a pair of runs in Detroit's 6-2 victory.

Philadelphia beat Milwaukee 7-6, leaving the Braves' National League lead at seven games after San Francisco lost to Los Angeles 6-3. It was the 10th defeat for the Giants in 11 games, leaving them only one game ahead of third-place Pittsburgh.

George Witt threw a three-hitter and scored the only run in Pittsburgh's 1-0 victory over Cincinnati. Del Ennis' grand slam homer gave St. Louis a 6-3 triumph over Chicago, breaking up a battle between Vinegar Bend Mizell and Dick Drott.

Pete Runnels held tight to the American League batting lead with one hit in three official trips against Ford for a .335 average. Whitey struck out six and walked four, snapping Boston's five-game winning streak.

The Yanks scored enough to beat Ike Delock in the first inning on Hank Bauer's single and Tony Kubek's hit and run double. They added the second run in the eighth off Bud Byerly who had pitched 11 shutout innings on relief since he joined the Red Sox.

Roy Sievers and Jim Lemon each had two hits in Washington's attack on Hal Brown and two successors. Both Baltimore runs, including Gus Triandos' 21st homer,

Philadelphia beat Milwaukee 7-6, leaving the Braves' National League lead at seven games after San Francisco lost to Los Angeles 6-3. It was the 10th defeat for the Giants in 11 games, leaving them only one game ahead of third-place Pittsburgh.

Touchdown Club To View Browns Today

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — On both offense and defense the fans will have some particular points to watch in the Cleveland Browns' scrimmage today.

Members of the Cleveland Touchdown Club are lunching at the club's training camp and having a look at the afternoon scrimmage.

The No. 1 quarterback, Milt Plum, has a weekend assignment with the Army Reserve in Akron. Hence Jim Haluska, the former Wisconsin passer, will be doing most of the aerial work.

His chief competition for the job of understudy is from a defensive back, Bobby Freeman, and a rookie, Jim Ninowski of Michigan State.

The defensive backfield still is subject to shuffling. Don Paul had permission to report late and has been in camp only a week. Roddy Osborne, a rookie, injured a toe the first day and still is limping.

ALL OUT OF PROPORTION

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Sherman Adams case is not consistent with policies of the Eisenhower administration, but similar cases occurred in the Truman administration, Mrs. Katharine Kennedy Brown, Republican national committeewoman from Ohio, said here Friday.

Mrs. Brown, of Dayton, spoke at the annual rally and dinner of the Women's Republican Club of Ohio. She said she feels the volume of publicity given the case "truly seems all out of proportion."

Alliance Tax To Net City $400,000

ALLIANCE — Alliance will have a six-tenths of one per cent municipal income tax as of Oct. 1 following City Council's adoption of the levy Thursday night.

The levy is expected to add $400,000 a year to the city treasury.

Inclusion of an emergency clause assuring at least a 13-months' operation before any referendum made a two-thirds majority vote necessary.

The balloting was 6-3 in favor of the levy.

The emergency clause had been inserted in the measure at a meeting Monday night. It was strongly advocated by Mayor David Mainwaring so that the people could be shown what could be done before they had to vote.

The passage ends three years of discussions by council and townspeople on a means of providing extra income for capital improvements and operations.

The levy will continue until 1960 unless repealed.

The city will be permitted to borrow up to 50 per cent of the expected income for the year since the revenue would not reach the treasury for several months.
